To: you

From: (I think you know who). (or you will figure it out.)

I walk in slowly, each step with more confidence. There's a tall man standing in the middle of the room. His thundering voice booms over all and every student stares with anticipation in their eyes. But he's kind and caring with his coffee and all. He also has a mighty beard, each string of hair has brilliance intertwined. He's my teacher.

Thank you.
